CUBS' FOOD

They Thrive on Grape-Nuts.

Healthy babies don't cry, and the well-nourished baby that is fed on Grape-Nuts is never a crying baby. Many babies who cannot take any other food relish the perfect food Grape-Nuts and get well.

"My little baby was given up by three doctors who said he would never live. On which I had fed it had ruined the child's stomach. One of the doctors told me that the only thing to do would be to try Grape-Nuts, so I got some and prepared it as follows: I soaked it in table-spoonful of water and added a little sugar, warmed it and gave it to baby every two hours.

"In this simple, easy way I saved baby's life and have built her up to a strong, healthy child, rosy and laughing. The food must certainly be perfect to have such a wonderful effect as this. I can truthfully say I think it is the best food in the world to raise delicate babies and is also a delicious, healthful food for grown-ups, as we have discovered in our family. ## OPEN LECTURE FOR ALL DRESSMAKERS.

President of Association Extends Invitation for Century Building
Meeting.

MANY ATTEND CONVENTION.

Miss Emma G. Mullen Delivers
An Address on the Characteristics of Modistes — Parisian Coat Proves Popular.

Music and the living models make the matinees at the Lindell Hotel parlors one of the attractive shows of the week for St. Louis women folk.

Although the seating capacity of the hotel parlor had been doubled yesterday afternoon, scores of visitors stood for two hours during the convention of the Western Dressmakers' and Merchants' Association.

This morning Mrs. Wade will permit all St. Louis dressmakers to attend the morning lecture at the Century building, whether they are members of the association or not.

Miss Emma G. Mullen opened the afternoon programme with an address on "Dressmakers I Have Met."

Miss Mullen described the dressmakers and their patrons in continuous good humor by her clever description of the dressmaker in all her various moods and manners. She portrayed the modiste who is always behind time, and the dressmaker who sews too well, who does nothing but sew and forgets about everything else.

"There are only two things to a woman's dress," said Miss Mullen. "One is the color, the other the lines. When you have the lines and color established you have your dress. The seamstress can do the rest."

"If I could give this exhibition before a convention of retail dry goods men from the smaller cities of Missouri for two days," said Miss Mullen, "I would guarantee to increase their sales this fall 50 per cent. They are already manifesting interest in the association, but they do not realize how little they know of their own stock."

After attending the convention they will tell their customers, as I heard one young salesman doing the other day, 'There are beautiful fashions we see adorning the Paris coat were to be worn a great deal this year. Like champagne around your neck!'

BLINDING OF GREEN SHADES.

"Notice those two shades of green," exclaimed Mrs. Wade, as an imported dress costume was being exhibited. "Do you see how perfectly that light green, on the collar, matches the shade of green on the back of the coat? It is just enough contrast, just enough difference, and then the blinding of green shades. It is a thing that makes a dressmaker a success, an artist and not a mechanic."

The "velvet-lined" gown was again exhibited yesterday. "Technically, the dressmaker may not care for it, but one of the patrons, but I notice how the women praise it. That is the best test for a dressmaker."

Probably the handsomest garment displayed yesterday was a Parisian importation just received from Paris, and said to be the only one exhibited in the country. It was a modified pearl-gray military coat, with half military cap, and the seams being edged with the stitches following the French fashion. The collar and the front has the Persian binding. Its simplicity is relieved with buttons and tassels.

SAY STREET IS BLOCKADED.

Company States Residents' Allegation Is Unfounded.

Complaint has been filed with several city officials by property owners on Clemens avenue in regard to the condition of the street. The petition alleges that the water and gas connections are broken and that it is impossible to travel in the garages.

Sewer Commissioner Valliant stated yesterday that a sewer was being constructed on the street and that the work of putting the street in its normal condition is progressing rapidly.

A representative of the Municipal Engineering and Construction Company, which has the contract, said that the work of putting the street in its normal condition is progressing rapidly.

PREDICTS COOLER WEATHER.

High From the Northwest Will Bring Lower Temperature.

Cooler weather is working its way from the Northwest. The wind changed to Northwest yesterday afternoon, and caused a drop in the temperature. The weather bureau predicts that the mercury will continue downward to-day, possibly for five or six degrees.

The forecast of the Weather Bureau is fair and cooler weather. The high that is bringing the cool wind was yesterday central over the Dakotas. At Rapid City, S. D., there was a drop in the mercury of 10 degrees. The temperature was 60 degrees at the time of the report. The high temperature registered yesterday was 80 degrees at 1 o'clock.

SOLDIERS IN COURTROOM

CAUSE ATTORNEY TO QUIT.

Habeas Corpus Case Brought by Cripple Creek Prisoners Probably Will Be Decided To-Day.

Cripple Creek, Colo., Sept. 23.—General Chase produced in District Court to-day the four military prisoners for whom writs of habeas corpus were issued and a strong force of troops was stationed in and about the Courtroom.

Former Attorney General Eugene Engley, who instituted the habeas corpus proceedings, protested against the presence of thirty soldiers in the courtroom, declaring it to be in violation of the Constitution and as they were permitted to remain he withdrew from the case.

In announcing his withdrawal, Mr. Engley said: "When I filed the application for writs of habeas corpus, I supposed that these proceedings would be heard under constitutional guarantee; but it is not so. This is no longer a constitutional court. It is an armed camp. The court has been hounded by soldiers further in this case."

Mr. Engley and his associate, John Murphy, left the courtroom together.

S. H. Crump, for the respondents, presented an argument along purely legal lines. He said that he wished to correct the impression derived from Lieutenant McClelland's remarks that they claimed that the writ of habeas corpus is suspended. But, he said, the respondents claimed that it was not always necessary to grant the writ, and that it was a constitutional right. The question which he argued was whether the writ shall stand or fall.

At the conclusion of Attorney Crump's argument, Judge Seels announced that he probably would deliver his decision on the motion to quash the habeas corpus proceedings to-morrow afternoon.

The prisoners, escorted by the military, were taken back to the guardhouse. No affidavits charging any of them with crimes have been filed.

WIFE IDENTIFIES WEARING APPAREL.

Mrs. Jessie McCann Says Clothing Belonged to Her Husband.

Mrs. Jessie McCann identified the clothing and other articles of wearing apparel found by an employee of the St. Louis, St. Charles and Western Railroad Company, Tuesday evening, as those of James P. McCann, her husband, who is alleged to have been killed on the evening of June 18 by Frederick Seymour Barrington.

The clothing was also identified by Ona Morrison, a negress servant of Mrs. McCann.

The women went to the Mounted District Police Station and Mrs. McCann went when she saw the clothing of her dead husband. She has offered $50 reward for the discovery of the clothes and announced her intention of paying the money to the man who found them.

The clothing was taken by Sergeant Kirk and Special Officer Cabanos to Clayton for inspection by the Grand Jury, which is in session and which has been hearing evidence on the Barrington case for the last two days. Mrs. McCann and the Morrison woman went to Clayton, and both again identified what is said by the State to be the missing link in the chain of evidence against Barrington.

The latter was less concerned than any one connected with the case about the finding of the clothes. He laughed when told about it. His attorney, Heno Althamer, said he had expected some sort of a discovery to be made, and has a strong effect when introduced at the trial in the Circuit Court.

Prosecuting Attorney Johnston is non-committal on the subject, but it is intimated that the new witness is the most important yet found, and that his identity will be carefully concealed until the trial. It is said that Barrington has intimated to some of the jail officials that he also has a surprise to spring at the proper time.
